

School of Education Earns National Recognition

Purdue Fort Wayne's School of Education has earned national recognition for excellence in teacher preparation, receiving an A+ rating from the National Council on Teacher Quality (NCTQ) for literacy instruction and earning accreditation from the Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation (CAEP), the nation's leading accrediting body for educator preparation programs. Together, these distinctions affirm PFW's commitment to preparing highly qualified educators who will strengthen classrooms, schools, and communities across northeast Indiana and beyond.

Help Shape the Future of Omnibus

The Omnibus Speaker Series Committee is seeking recommendations for speakers for the upcoming year and would appreciate your input. Guided by the mission of inspiring fresh and diverse thoughts, the Omnibus Speaker Series brings some of the world's leading voices to Purdue Fort Wayne to share engaging stories, ideas, and perspectives with our campus and community.

If there is a speaker, author, innovator, leader, or thought-provoking voice you would like to see at PFW, please submit your recommendation. Your ideas will help shape future Omnibus programming and ensure the series continues to inspire meaningful conversations.

Volunteers Needed for United Way Day of Caring

Purdue Fort Wayne is assembling a team to participate in United Way Allen County's Day of Caring on Friday, August 21. Day of Caring is an opportunity to give back to our community through volunteer projects that support local nonprofits and organizations.

At this time, we are simply collecting the names of faculty and staff who may be interested in participating. Additional details about volunteer assignments, locations, and schedules will be shared at a later date. If you're interested in representing PFW and making a difference in our community, please sign up today.
